

Invitation to the fifth "Research for Health in the Syrian Conflict Conference" 2024

Dear Invitee,

We are pleased to invite you to attend the fifth 'Research for Health in the Syrian Conflict' Conference hosted by the Research for Health Systems Strengthening in Syria (R4HSSS) programme in collaboration with King's College London, London School of Economics (LSE), Mehad, Syria Public Health Network (SPHN), Syria Research Group (SyrRG), Union of Medical Care and Relief Organisations (UOSSM).

The conference will be held in The Bush House Auditorium at King's College London, 30 Aldwych, London, WC2B 4BG on 16th May 2024 from 09:00 - 17:00 GMT.

There is also an option to join online via Zoom.

The 'Research for Health in the Syrian Conflict' Conference stands as a paramount platform for fostering meaningful discussions, sharing cutting-edge research, and shaping innovative strategies that address the critical health challenges arising from the Syrian conflict. With your esteemed presence, we aim to cultivate a collaborative environment where experts, scholars, practitioners, and thought leaders can unite to catalyse positive change for health in conflict-affected regions.

During the conference, there will be keynote presentations, interactive panel discussions, innovative research findings presented by individuals inside Syria and internationally working in the Syrian context, and networking opportunities with influential stakeholders.

Your participation will greatly contribute to the success of this conference, allowing us to bring together diverse perspectives, advance crucial research initiatives, and amplify the impact of our collective efforts on health systems strengthening in Syria. This will further aid in facilitating this transformative event while also leave a lasting mark on the lives of countless individuals affected by the Syrian conflict.
